Happy Holidays

HOLIDAY TRADITIONPRESIDENTS CORNER by Bruce Saban '87

It goes without saying that time continues to clip by at lightning speed. The calendar continues to be unforgiving and another year at Parma Senior High is approaching the midyear point. Yet, as we all know, this is no ordinary year and with each event that comes and goes, we are continually reminded that it marks the 'last time' for something. The last school play occurred in November, and it was a rousing success. The students performed 'Puffs' which was unique take on the Harry Potter universe. Additionally, the last home Volleyball game witnessed the return of volleyball players from yesteryear. They shared stories and were able to hit one last serve on the Redmen home court. Lastly, the final home football game of the year was one giant reunion with Redmen Varsity Lettermen Jackets being dusted off and old Jerseys being donned. Even Derrick Kovacs (class of 88) still managed to fit into his #89 Jersey, although he had a bit more trouble getting open for a pass than he used to. But one of the many highlights of the evening for me had to be watching Ron Skelley as one of the Honorary Captains for the game. I bring this up because I have a tear in my eye even now as I remember how many former students came down to the field to shake his hand or give him a hug and tell him how important of a person he was to them. Tony Biassiotta (class of 87) who is now the Mayor of Seven Hills has shared his story with me on more than one occasion. He told me that it was Mr. Skelley's American Political Behavior class that inspired him to pursue a career in public service. And Tony's story is not unique. I will continue to say it. Parma High has always been the personal connections and relationships. For every story we know of, there are hundreds of thousands more that are just as important to each and every graduate of PSH. Once a Redmen, always a Redmen.

EDITORS DESK by Anthony DeMarco '62 Why I am so grateful to PSHS.

Looking back at the 3 years I spent at Parma High as a student was a special time. I remember the December Holiday season. Stained Glass windows, Class displays and the choir singing in the halls. The Concert Choir and Orchestra would have an assembly in the auditorium for the students and a concert in the evening for the adults. What a great time of the year that was, and what a great place to be going to High School. I'm sure many alumni have your own fond memories and traditions that you enjoyed while attending PSH.

I graduated in 1962 and enjoyed my high school years. I played football and got involved in activities and made many friends. Those friends, I still have a close relationship with. My favorite subject was Art which made me want to further my knowledge and art abilities. I graduated from college, married my high school sweetheart and returned to PSH to teach Art. We stayed in the Parma area because I wanted my children to experience the cont.pg2 memories and education that I and my wife had. Even though "The Queen of High Schools" will no longer exist on these grounds, the traditions and memories of this building and what it provided for me, my family and the community will remain strong in my mind; as I hope it will in all Alumni.

I have been on the PSH Alumni Board since 1967. As Vice President now and on behalf of the PSH Alumni Board I will assure you that the Association will continue its efforts to keep in touch with all Alumni through the "Tradition" newsletter and our web-site. We will assist with reunions, keep you informed of other alums activities and community updates. We want your fond memories of your high school years to remain strong.

Small group tours of PSH will be available. Please contact Bruce Saban or Tony DeMarco at 440-885-8687 and leave a message.

"LOYALTY ETERNALLY"

LION AND BLUE a Lakewood Landmark - based on an article from the Lakewood Observer 11/16/22 by Barbara Raymond. A Lakewood resident and author.

Michael Dolatowski was a 1987 graduate of PSHS. He took Enameling and Jewelry classes in Parma's Art Program. His art work won local Key awards and a Key New York. He went to the Cleveland Institute of Art and worked as a jeweler in downtown Cleveland.

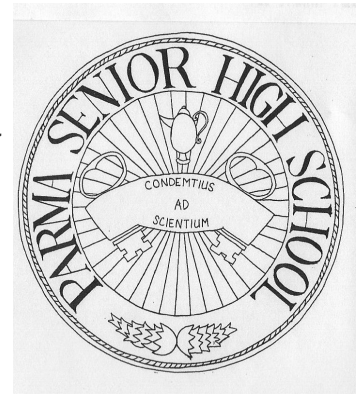

In 1996 Mike and his wife Tina opened the Lion and Blue. Tina said "When we married each other, we married our talents. I previously had a shop in the Arcade and was good at managing. Michael had worked for a jeweler himself."

The result? A store that sells jewelry, obviously, but also clothing, Birkenstock, candles, books. Essential oils, decorative mirrors, incense, beautiful Turkish lamps, cards, journals, musical instruments, and more.

Michael crafts custom made Jewelry, including wedding rings to order and also repairs and redesigns pieces. Most of the other items sold in the Lion and Blue are certified fair trade and crafted by indigenous people from all over the world. They have an assortment of tiny hand-carved "spirit animals" each of which is said to represent certain talents and traits.

The stores name, like some items, is whimsical, and was inspired by a beautifully illustrated book of the same name that Tina gave Michael shortly after they met. It is a story about a lion who searches for and finds, a beautiful blue Brazilian butterfly he loves. Lion and Blue's eclecticism and a perfect place to find unique gifts and fine jewelry.

 If you or someone you know has an interesting story to tell, please contact us with yours or their stories. We will need verification and permission from those individuals to print that information in the Tradition. We have final say on content. Thank you in advance for success stories about our fellow Graduates.*

PSH ATHLETIC DEPT RYAN MADISON

The PSH Athletic Department welcomed back the members of the 1971 and 1972 Back-to-Back Lake Erie League Champion Parma Redmen football teams at their home opener vs. Fairview. The night included a pre and post game social and an on the field ceremony during the game. L.E.L. MVP's from the two seasons, Steve Sabo and Don Homyk along with PSH alumnus and former Baltimore Colt Mike Ozdowski were selected as honorary captains for the game. The night was filled with many memories, stories and laughter! The alumni members that attended the event definitely proved our motto, "Once a Redmen...Always a Redmen!"

The PSH Athletic Department has Parma Redmen Spirit wear for sale in the spirit store. Get yours while you can! Email Athletic Director Ryan Madison at madisonry@parmacityschools.org to inquire about scheduling a time to stop into the store. For out of towners who cannot make it into the school to purchase items, we will be having an online spirit store that can ship items later this year. From The PSHS Athletic Director Ryan MadisonFinal Score of PSHS last game Parma 20 Fairview 7

With the announcement of Parma Senior High closing after this school year inevitably came challenges for all Parma High students and staff alike. This was no exception for the Redmen Football team who were in the middle of offseason workouts when the unfortunate news broke. The Redmen were coming off one of their more successful years in recent memory under new Head Coach and 2009 PSH graduate Matt Burns. They were looking to build upon the positives from the season with a successful 2022 campaign which just also happened to be the 100th season in Parma football history.

What looked to be a promising season for the Redmen quickly became an uphill battle before they even strapped on their pads. The number of participants dropped remarkably. Many younger players decided to either not play this year or transferred to other schools because they figured there was little point in playing for a team that would not exist in their future years. The Redmen also struggled to find additions to their coaching staff, considering the circumstances. Fortunately, four PSH Alumni members were on staff to help weather this storm. Head Coach Matt Burns ('09), Offensive Coordinator Howie Spies ('82), Offensive Line Coach Ryan Madison Jr. ('19) and Outside Linebackers Coach Sebastian Spear ('16) brought passion and pride to a Parma team that certainly had more obstacles to face than most other high school football teams. The Redmen found themselves with only 42 participants from grades 9-12 by the time they had their home opener against the Fairview Warriors. At this game, they honored the 1971 and 1972 LEL Championship Teams. 1972 LEL MVP Don Homyk and future Baltimore Colts end Mike Ozdowski even came out to a practice to throw around the pigskin, tell stories, and walk on top of the same old, dusty, practice field they played on one last time.

Due to the unfortunate and unforeseen circumstances that the team faced, it was very challenging for the team to achieve victory, but that did not stop them from working hard and giving their best effort. Week after week, the Parma gridiron warriors faced challenges and adversity. In an ironic twist of events, the last game the Redmen would ever play would be the same Fairview Warriors team they fell to earlier in the year. With Parma pride heavy in their heart, and the bond of a rich fraternity of Parma football players behind them, the Redmen persevered through a season of struggle and strife.

As the clock hit 0:00 at James B. Daley Stadium in Fairview Park, the Redmen found themselves victorious in the final game of the final season in Parma Football history. With a 20-7 win, the Redmen capped off 100 years of tradition, brotherhood, and pride with their helmets held high in victory. Although there were many tears, the joy and pride that filled the hearts of the Redmen players, coaches, families, and fans was the perfect way to finish the final chapter in Parma Redmen football history.

Exactly one month later, the team gathered one last time to celebrate their season at their annual awards ceremony. To the surprise of the current players, each award that is named after a PSH Football great was virtually presented to them by the legends themselves. Dave Condon ('59), Dr. Arnie Chonko ('61), Steve Sabo ('72), Don Homyk ('73), Mike Ozdowski ('73), and Dr. Bruce Saban ('88) filled the star studded group of presenters. The greats expressed their gratitude to the program, their congratulations to the players, and gave life advice and inspiration to our student-athletes. Anyone who has played football, knows that it is more than just a game. The relationships formed, the life lessons learned, and the men that are made are the true beauty of this sport. For 100 years, thousands of young men from Parma have come together as one to become something bigger than any one of them alone. Through all the adversity faced this year, "Team 100" played for all of the Greyhounds and Redmen that came before them to walk off the field for the final time as winners. Winners for life.
